PURPOSES OF THE LIFESPAN INTEGRATION DISCUSSION LIST

This discussion list is for mental health therapists who have taken the Lifespan Integration training. We use the list to:

- 1) ask general questions about use of LI,
- 2) post our results,
- 3) find referral sources for clients who want LI therapy,
- 4) or offer resources for therapists which might be useful with LI therapy.

The list is not intended to replace supervision. If you have detailed questions about how to use LI, please contact one of the approved consultants/supervisors listed on the website.

Please stick to the purposes of the list when you post.

HOW TO SEND A MESSAGE OR RESPOND TO DISCUSSION GROUP MESSAGE

The e-mail address for the discussion group is LI-WORLD@LI.groups.io. When you put this address in the address box at the top of a new e-mail, your message will be sent to all the people who belong to the LI discussion list.

Some of the therapists who belong to this discussion group live in Spain, Sweden, France, Switzerland, Norway, Belgium, and other countries where English is not the primary language. These therapists will not understand some of the idioms, slang, and abbreviations that we commonly use. Please keep this in mind when posting.

Before you send your post, please be sure that the subject line of the e-mail reflects the actual subject about which you are posting. If you are beginning a new discussion re: a new topic, please start a new e-mail with its own subject as opposed to tagging onto a different discussion thread. Keeping topics separate makes it easier for list member to find and read only the information which interests them.

If your post is to request an LI therapist in a particular city, please indicate the city in the subject line. If you use the subject "looking for LI therapist in San Diego, CA", then therapists who live in other cities will not have to open the e-mail to see if your request applies to them.
